

Multi-Agency PEP Training

‘Making Personal Education Plans (PEPs) a priority for children in care’

All children and young people in care need to have a Personal Education Plan or PEP. The PEP brings together their care and education information in one document, so that all those working with a child know the essential information about their education.

Following the launch of the new PEP format last year, this workshop aims to take a detailed look at it, with advice and information on how to complete it. There will be opportunities for discussion and feedback for practitioners to promote interdisciplinary understanding and collaboration, and to ensure the success of the PEP process.

During this session, time will be spent exploring the process and necessity of investing in it, in order to highlight how multi-agency working can improve educational opportunities for children in care.
